“High quality Orff instruments are a great way to bring melodic concepts to life in your music classroom. They are valuable when accompanying singers, but even more so when students are composing and improvising.” - Roger Sams

Roger Sams retired from the music classroom in 2013 after 31 years of teaching music. He has been an active clinician and Orff instructor for over two decades and has taught in China, India, Indonesia, Scotland, Canada, South Korea, Poland, Spain, and throughout the US. Roger is trained in Gestalt therapy and is interested in the power of choice in the artistic process and in life. He is co-author of “Purposeful Pathways: Possibilities for the Elementary Music Room” and the composer of several choral octavos published in the Crooked River Choral Project series and a book of rounds and partner songs titled, “A Round My Heart.” He is currently Director of Publications at Music Is Elementary.

“When thinking about designing my dream Studio 49 packages I knew right away I wanted 1000 series soprano and alto xylophones. I prefer the smaller, flat-box design. They store nicely and are moved easily by the students. It is great that they are less expensive, but honestly, I’m not choosing them because of the lower price. I love them! I prefer 2000 series (the top of the line) for basses and glockenspiels. The beautiful rich tone produced by the bass instruments and the sparkling clarity of the glockenspiels are worth the extra dollars. I’ve created a six-instrument starter set for teachers who are purchasing their first barred instruments and have a smaller budget to work with.

When expanding out to a class set of 26 instruments, I like one bass metallophone in combination with two bass xylophones to sustain the bass part. I would add on one soprano and one alto metallophone if I were purchasing more than 26 instruments. I recognize it may be difficult to raise the funds to purchase all 26 instruments in one school year, so I’ve broken it down into a three-year purchasing plan.”

Remo World Music Drumming Curriculum & Instruments

World Music Drumming by Dr. Will Schmid is a critically-acclaimed, 30-lesson instructional program for middle school general music classes. World Music Drumming is aimed primarily at middle school general music, yet is applicable for grades 3 through adult, including high school and corporate team building. The curriculum brings the enjoyment and excitement of music while building important life skills such as communication, listening, teamwork, discipline and respect.

To complement this teaching method Remo, Inc. has developed four percussion packages of attractive, durable and easy to play instruments for classes ranging from 22 to 30 students. Included with each package is a classroom kit containing a teacher’s book, student enrichment book, and a DVD. Dr. Schmid recommends key-tuned drums for use in ensemble playing.

FREE SHIPPING on all Remo World Music Drumming Packages. Allow 3-6 weeks for delivery.
